Free event: Find out public's 'true power' in face of climate change

What's the difference between weather and climate? And if the planet is warming, why is it so cold? Get the answers to these and many more questions during "Reflections on a Changing Climate," a free event on Sunday, March 3, hosted by Brodhead Watershed Association.

Starting at 1 p.m. at Brodhead Creek Heritage Center, 1539 Cherry Lane Road, Analomink, BWA member Mark Lichy will facilitate the conversation. Lichy is an executive producer of the documentary "Groundswell Rising."

Participants will discuss the science of climate change; its impacts on weather patterns, the environment, economy, and human health; and actions citizens can take to lessen their carbon footprint.

This is "a talk on how climate change affects us, and how we can affect climate change," Lichy said. "Climate change is something you can impact. Come and connect with your true power."

The event is free, but registration is required and limited. Email info@brodheadwatershed.org or call 570-839-1120. For information about the event and other activities sponsored by BWA's Climate Change Committee, see brodheadwatershed.org/ClimateChange.htm.

Brodhead Watershed Association is a nonprofit environmental organization formed in 1989. BWA is dedicated to protecting and preserving water resources and the environment of the Brodhead watershed, and the water quality of the Brodhead, Cherry, Marshalls, McMichael, Paradise and Pocono creeks and their tributaries. BWA assists municipalities, residents, businesses and groups with protecting natural resources through education, workshops, seminars, public programs and stream monitoring.
